Forecast For Scotland
Issued by Met Office Aberdeen
at 0400 on Friday 04 Jun 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Mainly dry. Some sunshine, best in the east.

Today:
Much of Scotland will have a dry day with the best of the sunshine and the highest temperatures across eastern Scotland. Cloudier in the west with a few light showers, mainly over the Northwest where it will be breezy.

Tonight:
Central and eastern Scotland will remain dry with clear periods and turning chilly. Western Scotland will be cloudier and milder with patches of light rain, mainly along West Coast.

Saturday:
A lot of dry, bright weather with some sunshine. Clouds building with scattered showers breaking out, most frequent, heavier over northwest Highlands. Quite warm with light winds.

Outlook for Sunday to Tuesday:
High pressure will bring mostly dry, settled weather. It will be warm with sunny spells although turning cooler along the east coast with onshore breezes and patchy haar.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.